

Interdisciplinary Futures: Applying PhD Skills Throughout the University

Outside of the tenure track or adjuncting, what kinds of careers make use of interdisciplinary graduate training? This workshop features people who successfully applied their PhD and Women's Studies training to other positions within the university. Learn about their career paths and how you can take concrete steps to expand your PhD career options.

April 20, 2016
4:00 - 5:30
East Duke Parlors

Moderator: Dr. Edward J. Balleisen, Vice Provost for Interdisciplinary Studies

Heather Settle, PhD
Director of Academic Engagement, Global and Civic Opportunities

Christina Chia, PhD
Associate Director, John Hope Franklin Humanities Institute

Cisco Ramos, PhD
Manager of Program Evaluation and Assessment,
The Graduate School

Please RSVP to Claire Scott (claire.scott@duke.edu) by April 13th

This event is funded through a Professional Development Grant from The Graduate School.